Pranksgiving is coming!

• • •

Are you ready for 24 hours of prank calls on Prank Call Nation? What a coincidence! Because that's exactly what's going to happen beginning on Thanksgiving evening this year.

For the past 2 years now, the PCN & PLA communities have worked together to bring you a full 24 hours of annoying the crap out of people, live on the air!

Pretty much everyone you're familiar with in the community will be there, except for Staci because she's sick of us.

The fun will most likely start off with a show from Carlito on Thanksgiving evening, around 10pm Eastern, and should last until at least 10pm the following day.

Pranksgiving is a family event, so stock up on energy drinks, gather around the Mixlr with your grandparents, siblings, and your creepy uncle, and prepare to be entertained!

Bacon and Eggs!

Is what I'd really like for breakfast in the morning, but I'll probably just eat Cap'n Crunch Berries instead.

I have at least one good thing to report this month and that is that I've finally started putting work into a new episode of Telephone Falls. I hope that's what you all want, because it's going to happen. I'm also working on a side Telephone Falls project that I think you'll all enjoy, so be looking for something mysterious to happen before the actual show comes out.

I'm still shooting for the show to be ready by the end of the year, but please don't hate me if I don't finish it in time.

Contributors that usually receive packages instead of envelopes have probably noticed that your "packages" have been looking a little flat these past couple of months. I've been giving you more stickers instead of bulky things lately. The reason for this is money. On the months that I sent out thick packages, the shipping costs are over $150 per month. It's $2.50 to mail things in the U.S. and over $6 to mail things out of the country.

It's not that I'm just being a cheapskate. I'm going to make it up to you all by enclosing more things on the months that I mail bulky envelopes. But I'm also working on something awesome to give you all for Christmas. You will like it, I promise, and it'll make your months of flat envelopes worth it.

So please hang in there. Cool things are right around the corner that will make non-Patreon people super jealous.

A SECRET SHOW HAPPENED!

On October 11th, 2014, history was made when RBCP did a prerecorded show and didn't tell the general public about it.

In an attempt to make the Patreon thing seem a little more valuable, I created special feeds for contributors of the show that provide high quality audio shows and extra shows that regular hobo listeners won't know about.

If you haven't heard the show titled Encino Man yet, you need to log into your paid account on phonelosers.org and you'll see it on the main page, or you'll find instructions there to set up the secret podcast feeds.

I don't know how often I'll manage to do extra shows, but I'll do my best to make them happen at least a few times a year, and only after I've done enough regular shows for everyone. Hopefully it'll become a regular thing.
